

The namesake of our research group is Kent Bingham. Chief Engineer for Walt Disney's EPCOT Center.

I had the good fortune of meeting Kent Bingham in 1995 when he was in the early stages of creating his own engineering firm, having landed some contracts for the entertainment industry. His library of alternate transportation systems from around the globe was extensive.

I had the pleasure of working alongside him for over 15 years on a joint project named SMART SKYWAYS. After many years he made the decision to retire and work on other projects to include the OASIS MACHINE.

We have assembled a vetted team of professionals to carry on his works into the future and the creation of Binghamlabs.com

Previous Well Known Projects

